SECRETARY C. F. WILLIAMS

ON SMALL POX SITUATION

Replies to Lantern Editorial—Sets Eorth Position of State Board of Health and What is Being Done in Present Instance.

Columbia, S. C., Dec. 21, 1909.

Mr. W. F. Caldwell,

Editor and Proprietor, Chester, Lantern, Chester, S. C.

Dear Sir:—My attention has been called today to an editorial in your issue of Friday, December 17th, in reference to the small pox situation at Ffesterville and Fort Law, and country, etc. I hope it will not mislead you to give us space to state our position.

On December 20th, the state board of health met at its office in Columbia, and at this session I reported to the board that sporadic cases of small pox had appeared in several localities in different portions of the state. I referred to the members of the board what I considered the best policy to purge in controlling and suppressing the disease; whereupon the resolution contained in the following letter was unanimously adopted—showing the full concurrence by the board in the views expressed.

As this letter, which was addressed to your physician in the state, fairly clearly presents our position it is here given.

Columbia, S. C., December 14, 1909.

Dear Doctor:—Sporadic cases of small pox are being reported to the board from many localities throughout the state, the reports coming mostly from rural districts. Two rural localities have had the disease epidemic, due, we believe, to the fact that the people of the country have not availed themselves of the immunization afforded by vaccination. The disease is mild in character, but it is feared it will become intensified as it passes from one unprotected individual to another, and we need only recall the epidemic at Yorkville last spring with its frightful mortality of 60 per cent to convince us of the importance of urging an aggressive campaign of vaccination.

Vaccination prevents small pox, and the successfully vaccinated individual need have no fears whatever of contracting the disease. It is the duty of our board to have this knowledge imparted to all of our people, and we know of no avenue through which it can be forcibly presented as effectively as the individual physician to his clientele. We, therefore, appeal to you to urge upon your patients the importance of vaccination, and to accquire in presenting the disease by vaccinating them.

I am enclosing herewith for your information and guidance, a copy of our compulsory vaccination act, together with rules and regulations im-promulgated by the board in 1908.

At a meeting of the executive committee of the board on December 20th, the following resolution was adopted:

"Whereas vaccination and re-vaccination renders an almost absolute immunity against small pox; Be it

Resolved by the executive committee of the state board of health:

That to control and suppress the disease, it is only necessary to observe the following rules:

"1. Isolation of patients and suppression.

"We would advise that unless approved individuals can be vaccinated within two or three days after ex-posure, they be kept under supervision from the 10th to the 18th day.

"Many of the schools have not complied with the compulsory vaccination law, and we trust that you will use your influence towards having the law enforced in them.

"With respect to the cases at Ffesterville, I wish to state that the rules contained herein have been complied with and that an advanced step will be taken towards eradicating a disease which is really a reflection on the civilization of our people.

"We, therefore, again appeal to you to aid us in our efforts to remove this stigma, and to so educate your clientele as to the importance of vaccination, that it will be sought in time of peace as well as when danger threatens.

Very respectfully,

C. F. Williams,

Sec'y. and State Health Officer.

Mr. Editor:—As a further contribution to the work of stimulating the memorial spirit, in Chester, in behalf of the glorious Palmetto, I beg leave to submit the following excerpts from the writings of others whose authorities are transcendently greater than my own.

General Sam'l McDowen who was on the staff of Gen. Winfield Scott in the Mexican War, said in his beautiful address before the Palmetto Association, in Columbia, May 14, 1897:

"The history of the Palmetto Association is yet to be written. Single isolated facts have been transcribed, and the great body of events connected with it are yet unpublished, and, in our judgment, the world has rarely before seen a more valuable and invaluable record of the history of a subject. It is a subject of surpassing importance, and we believe, in the history of the world, the most important incident, the famous battle of the ten thousand Greeks, who have been immortalized in the Annals of Zanabon, their skillful leader, and at the same time, their great, good fortune, their eloquent history.

It is a subject full of daring heroism, and one which has been too long forgotten. It is a subject of the greatest importance, and one which should be remembered, and to the same successful issue in the capture of the capital of Mexico, by the great Spanish conqueror, Hernando

Cortez, the story of which is read with great delight in the same pages of Prescott.

Our people are not given to the marvelous of their own exploits.

They would rather act history than writings, but it is necessary, it is due to the memory of the great deeds, it is due to the memory of the great deeds, it is due to the

TUESDAY, DECEMBER 14, 1909

Why does Lancaster have the Christmas spirit all the year around? Because it is so close to heaven.

For the best city, in the best country, in the best state, in the best country, give us Chester.

Chester looks good to the returned student, and to every one who has ever had the opportunity of seeing this fair and beautiful city.

The Lancaster News says that the Chester merchants keeping up a full 24 hours on Christmas day must be the town just like a one horse team. They are so low in that ancient imitation of a hamlet that it is 2 1/2 miles when they get over the hills and work, and the Chester merchants will have done a day's work and then gone home before the Lancaster fellows get out of bed.

THAT SMALL POX.

Elsewhere appears a letter from Dr. C. F. Williams, secretary of the board of health, explaining the attitude of his board towards the small pox situation in this county and the plans which are being carried out for the purpose of checking the same. We have given it a prominent place and invite all of our subscribers' attention to it.

We were impressed with Dr. Williams' statement as to the vaccination work we think the policy of not quarantining wrong. We don't know it is necessary to quarantine a whole district but those people with full developed cases and those who have been exposed should be isolated and a shut gun round placed over them or else the disease will spread broadcast. We know that we are no doctor but common sense teaches us this, all opinions to the contrary notwithstanding.

Read what Dr. Williams has to say and then see if you don't agree. The Lantern is ready to quarantining those with small pox.

THE CHRISTMAS TIME

We are now at the season of the year when all is joy and gladness. When men's minds dwell on the cares and worries of business life and turn to cheerful, friendly joys. It is the time when men come nearer the feeling of true brotherhood and so some reflection of the love and love. It is splendid to note this spirit and without it the world would be a poor place to live.

At the season of family reunions. When distant ones come more gathered around the family fireside and discuss the events of the past year and the joys of the next. It is the occasion of mirth and revelry and the "joints" of spirits are uppermost. It is the greatest and grandest festival that we have. The story has been told us through the ages that it has been a time of everything is balanced and a clean sheet started.

Christmas, the anniversary of the birth of Jesus, commemorates a turning point in the history of mankind. It marked the birth of Christianity and the story of the birth of Christmas grows in sweetness and beauty through the ages and is a beautiful and noble and sublime in its setting. Beautiful memorial of a sweet birth. The story has been told us through the ages that it has been a time of everything is balanced and a clean sheet started.

CHRISTMAS ENTERTAINMENTS.

Christmas week promises to be a joyous occasion for Chester and many social affairs are scheduled for the week.

On Tuesday night, December 28th, the Chester Grange Club will hold the annual Christmas dance in the 12 pavilion on Walnut street. The pavilion has been made for the occasion and a host of visit will be expected from the surrounding towns.

On Wednesday evening at 7 o'clock occurs the wedding of Miss Helen Walker to Mr. Z. A. Smith. That same evening, at the Methodist church, will be the wedding of Miss Mary Patterson to Mr. S. D. Tucker. Both of these affairs will be noted events of the week.

On Thursday night December 30, before the reception in the Commercial Club. This promises to be one of the most enjoyable evenings of pleasure incidental to the holidays.

On Friday, December 31, Rathbone Lodge, K. of C. will hold their annual banquet. The committee in charge of this affair have been hard at work and it will be a fitting climax to the week's gayeties.

Many other events are on the calendar and already Christmas week 1909 will be a season of much enjoyment and pleasure.

LAND FOR SALE

On Monday, January 4, 1910, we will sell at public auction to cash for the highest bidder, a certain lot of land in Chester, S. C., at twelve o'clock in the afternoon, subject to private sale, two tracts of land, one containing 171 acres, more or less, and other containing one hundred and thirty acres, more or less. This land is situated in Chester County on Turkey Creek and is a part of what is now known as the Bradley lands and is now owned by Mrs. W. N. Walker. We reserve the right to sell the land from time to time if satisfactory bid is not made. Plans to be seen at our office. The purchaser will receive a fee simple title and must pay for the cost of paper.

HE WILL BE MISSED
 Prof. W. R. Perkins leaves the A. And M. College at Starkville.
 Starkville, Miss.—Prof. W. R. Perkins of the A. and M. College, who was offered a position in the Clemson College, South Carolina, left for that college today in order to make a personal investigation before deciding whether he will accept. Prof. W. R. Perkins is undoubtedly one of the best teachers in the state, both from practical and scientific standpoint. In the state, and he will be sadly missed. He has spent the last year in the state, and he will be sadly missed. He has spent the last year in the state, and he will be sadly missed.

Moving Day at the North Pole.
 Confusion reigns in Polarland. Where Santa Claus holds sway. A hundred thousand million toys. Are packed to send away. And Mrs. Claus and Santa, too. Are worried half to death. And have no time to eat or sleep. And a voice to draw their breath. While all the children cry and squeal. And fill the air with woe. For mortal men have reached the pole. And Santa has to go. The factory is miles around. And made of hardened snow. And all of Santa's helpers there. Are little Reindeers. Who make and cut and saw. To make a baby's throne, a sled. A book, a game, a Teddy bear. A little doll's bed. They say (or so skillfully. Throughout the Arctic nights. Because the place is all equipped. With patent "Northern Lights.") Now, Santa Claus is shy. Poor Santa Claus is shy. And so is Mrs. Santa Claus. And sure I can't tell why. So, though they may leave the children well. And like to see them play. When grown ups come too near to them. The Clauses move away. And as there is no spot on earth. Where men can never go. The plant Mars will be the future home. Of "Claus & Co." But, though he soon will live on Mars. In the sky so blue. To children whom he loves on earth. Old Santa will be true. And when next Christmas comes around. He surely will appear. Though in an albatross he will ride. Instead of sleigh and deer. He'll leave his presents and be gone. Before the peep of light. To bring good cheer to little ones. And make their Christmas bright. —Miss Garrison in New York Her-ald.

Smallpox in Jail.
 Spartanburg, S. C., Dec. 21.—Smallpox has broken out among prisoners in the county jail as the result of which the jail has been quarantined by the county officials. No prisoners who are being held for investigation are allowed to be taken from the jail, though arrangements have been made to admit all prisoners committed. Among the prisoners who have smallpox is William Howard, alias Oklahoma Bill, charged with swindling the Spartanburg firm out of $500 on a bad trait. Howard was arrested in Meridian, Miss., after a long chase across the country. In addition to smallpox at the jail it is said there are several light cases in various sections of the city. The authorities have the situation well in hand.—Special to The State.

Of Much Interest.
 The secretary of agriculture has issued an order (effective 30 days after December 6, 1909) releasing from federal quarantine the counties of Boone, Pickens, Greenville and Anderson. This permits unrestricted movement of cattle from these counties to all parts of the United States and is a direct result of tick eradication work which has been conducted by state and federal authorities in this area since July 1, 1907. With the exception of a few premises which are still in quarantine these counties are now free from ticks. The release of these counties should prove an incentive to the live stock industry, especially in this area, as cattle can now be raised without fear of loss from these counties and sold without restriction. This order does not allow movement of cattle into these four counties from any other portion of this state. Tick eradication work is also being conducted in Boone, Pickens, Greenville, York, Oconee, Union, Laurens, Greenwood and Abbeville and these counties will probably be in addition to release in about one year.

Many merry Christmas, many happy New Years, unbroken friendships, great accumulation of observations, recollections, affections, and devotion for all of us—Christmas.

Rev. M. L. Banks the New Pastor of Central Church, Newberry.
 Rev. M. L. Banks, who has lived here for the past two years, has been moved to the first church of Newberry. Mr. Banks and his family have made many strong friendships during their stay among us, and they will be missed. Mr. Banks is a Christian gentleman, who has always the good of his church at heart, and who devotes his whole time and attention to the establishment of those principles for which he stands. His coming to this church is the result of the best wishes and counsel of his entire congregation.—Burlington News and Press.

Luck of Cards.
 Cards are possessed of a folklore of their own in addition to figuring in our literature. During an inquiry into an eighteenth century fire it was discovered that the outbreak occurred as the result of the housekeeper's flinging a pack of cards in the grate because she had lost three times running. She explained in evidence that before taking this extreme step she had changed cards, had a fresh pack and the prize boy to all attending in order to bring her good luck. Modern players solemnly rise and turn their chairs round three times when luck has gone amiss, and most bridge players cherish their favorite cards, which they have choice of cards—London Standard.

Patchouli.
 The odor of patchouli was known to Europe before the material was introduced, in consequence of its use in Kashmir to scent the shawls with a view of keeping out the moths, which are averse to it. The genuine cashmere shawls became known by their scent, until the French found out the secret and imported the herb for use in the same way.

Fish That Cannot Swim.
 More than one species of fish that cannot swim are known to naturalists. Perhaps the most singular is the eel, which, although a fish, whose organs of locomotion only enable it to crawl or walk or hop. The anterior (pectoral) fins of the eel, which are quite useless, are not capable of setting on the water, but can only move backward and forward, having truly the form of thin plates. Both these and the central and anal fins are very different from the similar fins in other fishes and could not serve for swimming at all. Other examples of eel-like fishes include the sea horse, another most peculiarly shaped inhabitant of the sea, and the starfish.

The Waiter Goes.
 "What sort of a customer is Brown?" "Fine. He always pays his bills on the 10th of the month." "And what do you know about Green?" "I don't know much about Green's credit. You see, he always pays cash when he gets anything, and so I couldn't see whether he's honest or not."—Detroit Free Press.

Notes About Birds.
 A peculiar characteristic about birds is that the young of those that build nests in trees are blind when hatched, are naked, unable to walk and are fed by the parent bird. Among the winged birds the young can walk, swim and pick up food immediately upon leaving the egg. With birds, as with higher animals, the females seem to have very bright colors and music, because Mother Nature usually ornaments the head, neck and tail of the males that they may find mates more readily. The male birds usually have a more showy and colorful plumage.—London Gleaner.
